Connecticut Water Service Inc. to Participate in Panel Discussion and Exhibit at the MoneyShow Orlando

CLINTON, Conn. — Feb. 5, 2018 — Connecticut Water Service Inc. (NASDAQ: CTWS) today announced that David C. Benoit, interim president and CEO will participate in a panel discussion at the MoneyShow Orlando on Feb. 10. CTWS is the largest publicly traded regulated water and wastewater utility in New England.

Benoit will be sharing his perspective during the panel Income Investing Using Utilities That Pay Consistent Dividends on Saturday, Feb. 10, at 9 a.m. The panel discussion will also be streamed live on the internet. The link to view the panel discussion online is available on the 'Events and Presentations' page of CTWS's investor relations website at <http://ir.ctwater.com>. Connecticut Water has paid a dividend without interruption or reduction since its founding in 1956. Further, the company has increased its dividend payments in each of the past 48 years.

Meetings with the management team at the MoneyShow Orlando can be arranged by contacting CTWS Investor Relations at 215-901-0426 or visiting the CTWS Exhibition Show Booth No. 205.

About CTWS

Through its regulated water utility subsidiaries, CTWS serves more than 134,000 water customers, or about 450,000 people, in 80 communities across the states of Connecticut and Maine, and 3,000 wastewater customers in Southbury, Conn. It is New England's largest publicly traded water and wastewater utility. Since January 2012, CTWS has grown its customer base by more than 45 percent, or more than 44,000 customers, primarily through acquisition of companies in Maine in 2012 and Connecticut in 2017.
