- c. Other officers of the Company may communicate, from time to time, with Securities Markets Participants, subject to the approval of the Chief Executive Officer. Such authorized representatives are not authorized to communicate business or financial information about the Company that is material non-public information, except through Company-approved public disclosure.
- d. It is our policy that, except as specified under (a), (b) and (c) above, representatives of the Company shall not communicate with Securities Market Participants, and should refer all questions to the Chief Financial Officer or to any external Investor Relations service provider identified on the Company's website.
- e. The Company believes that one-on-one communications with Securities Market Participants can be a valuable component of its Investor Relations program. Except as provided in clauses (a) and (b) above or a representative of the Investor Relations Group shall participate in such conversations. During such conversations, authorized representatives may discuss information the Company has previously publicly disclosed, non-material information, and generally known Company or industry-related information.

In order to ensure that complete, and accurate information is obtained, Securities Market Participants should direct all inquiries regarding the Company's financial condition, results of operations, strategies and other similar matters, to the Company's Investor Relations Group.

Statements by employees or agents who are not authorized representatives of the Company should not be relied upon.

III. Confidential Communications

Neither the Company nor its representatives shall disclose material non-public information (as defined in the Company's Policy Regarding Insider Trading, Tipping and Other Wrongful Disclosures as from time to time posted on the Company's website) to any person or entity under circumstances in which it is reasonably foreseeable that the person or entity will purchase or sell the Company's securities on the basis of the information.

IV. Quarterly Earnings Release Conference Calls and Updates

We will hold quarterly investor conference calls open to the public and media, and provide public notice about the call through a media release, by electronic distribution, posting on at least one well known public financial information website and the Company's website. The Company will participate in other forums at which Securities Market Participants could be present, including industry seminars, trade shows, employee, retiree, annual shareholder meetings, and meetings with commercial partners that are stockholders. We do not intend to disclose any material non-public information during these meetings.

VII. Media Communications

It is the Company's policy to publicly disclose material information before discussion with individuals representing the media. In the event that the Company desires to communicate non-public information to investors via social media, the following approach in compliance with Regulation FD requirements must be followed:

- a. Notify investors that you intend to use a particular social media channel to communicate material information to the market. The channel should be one where anyone who wishes to receive notifications can do so (such as a public Facebook page or a Twitter feed). The notice ideally would appear on the Company's Investor Relations website and on an on-going basis in financial press releases and periodic SEC reports. The notice should also indicate the types of information that may be disclosed through this channel.
- b. Actually use the designated social media account to communicate information of the types you told the investors would be disclosed through the account. Deviation from a company's usual practices for making public disclosure can factor into a Regulation FD violation.
- c. Comply with technical disclosure requirements. Use social media to direct followers to more detailed disclosure, for example, a Facebook post can contain a hyperlink to a press release or 8-K that contains all the required disclosures. Rules of the NYSE require companies to notify the exchange shortly in advance of the publication of material information, and the material information is to be released by means that comply with Regulation FD. If proxies are being solicited, the social media communications by the Company and its executives should not include soliciting materials that have not been filed as required. When a company is contemplating or conducting a securities offering, social media communications by the Company and its executives should be subject to the same policies and oversight as other Company communications during an offering.
- d. Use a dedicated account. Communicate material information through a dedicated investor relations account, which may be distinct from the account used to broadcast marketing, product or other business developments. This will avoid the risk that information material to investors gets lost among communications for other purposes.
