SS&C Announces the Appointment of Chief Technology Officer

8/16/2018

WINDSOR, Conn., Aug. 16, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- SS&C Technologies Holdings, Inc. (Nasdaq: SSNC), a global provider of financial services software and software-enabled services, today announced the appointment of Anthony Caiafa as the company's Chief Technology Officer, effective immediately. In this role, Caiafa will join the SS&C senior leadership team, reporting directly to Rahul Kanwar, President and Chief Operating Officer.

Mr. Caiafa brings a decade of successful technology leadership to his new role. His direct responsibilities include oversight of SS&C's infrastructure technology and a senior role in vision and strategy. He will work closely with customers to deliver long-term value on their technology investments.

"I am excited to join SS&C at such a pivotal moment of their growth," said Anthony Caiafa, Chief Technology Officer. "Today, operational transparency, agility and scalability are customer success requirements. SS&C has the technology, deep process expertise and infrastructure to help clients prosper."

"Anthony's track record clearly demonstrates his innovative spirit. He is aligned with SS&C's approach of empowering customers with continuous innovation while maintaining very high levels of resilience and redundancy," said Bill Stone, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer.

Prior to this role, Caiafa was part of Bloomberg's CTO office, where he led efforts in infrastructure, automation, monitoring and security. He was on the original team at DigitalOcean where he built the infrastructure to help the company grow to scale.
