IRVINE, Calif., June 10, 2021 /PRNewswire/ -- CalAmp (Nasdaq: CAMP), a connected intelligence company that helps people and businesses work smarter, has been recognized as a "3+" company by 50/50 Women on Boards™ for having three or more women on its board of directors. Amal Johnson, Roxanne Oulman and Kirsten Wolberg hold positions on CalAmp's board and comprise one-third of its ten members. Notably, Johnson was appointed Chair of the CalAmp Board of Directors in August 2020 and serves as a valued member of the company's advisory committee.

"It is an honor for CalAmp to be recognized by 50/50 Women on Boards," said Amal Johnson, Chair of CalAmp's Board of Directors. "While we recognize there is still more work to be done, I am proud to be a part of a company that celebrates diversity and inclusion. Being named a 3+ company serves as exciting momentum for our team and we will continue to drive the company toward more diversity and inclusion."

Founded in 2010, 50/50 Women on Boards is a nonprofit global education and advocacy campaign driving the movement toward gender balance and diversity on corporate boards. Reaching and exceeding its initial goal of 20 percent women directors by 2020, the organization's new campaign boldly calls for gender balance and diversity on corporate boards of the Russell 3000 Index companies. CalAmp has previously been honored as a 2020 Women on Boards Winning "W" Company for meeting the initial goal set by 50/50 Women on Boards.

"Women now hold a historic 23.7 percent of the Russell 3000 company board seats, but only six percent of corporations have gender-balanced boards, despite numerous studies confirming women directors on boards is a critical factor for improved corporate performance and profitability," said Betsy Berkhemer-Credaire, CEO of 50/50

Women on Boards. "We are devoted to recognizing companies like CalAmp that continue to work toward gender balance in the boardroom and are pleased to be recognizing them for the third time."
