

Windstream Offers Commercial DISH Network TV to Small and Medium Businesses

Features a variety of affordable programming packages to suit businesses' needs

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Windstream (NYSE: WIN) is now offering commercial DISH Network TV service to small and medium businesses.

With DISH Network, business customers can now access the best digital channels with attractive pricing. Packages feature 50 to 150 digital channels and can help any business attract more customers.

Public business locations as well as private offices can use DISH Network to enhance their customers' experience. DISH Network, which gets the lowest number of consumer complaints in the industry,* can improve almost any business's overall offering by providing the best movies and sports in high definition for their customers to enjoy.

"We are pleased to now be able to offer a video product to our business customers," said Don Perkins, Windstream vice president of product marketing. "Through the commercial DISH Network offering, Windstream business customers now have a variety of programming packages available to meet their needs."

DISH Network offers a wide variety of programming packages starting at $29.99 a month. DISH Network DVR receivers are also available for business customers. Standard professional installation is free with a two-year contract.

"DISH Network offers affordable entertainment options for any business," said Ira Bahr, Chief Marketing Officer for DISH Network. "With an outstanding lineup of programming and the most national HD channels available, DISH Network can offer business customers entertainment that suits their needs."
