Carlisle Companies to Acquire PermaTherm, a Georgia-Based Manufacturer of Insulated Metal Panels

SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA, November 17, 2026 - Carlisle Companies Incorporated (NYSE:CSL) today announced that it has entered into a definitive agreement to acquire PermaTherm, Inc. ("PermaTherm"), a Georgia-based manufacturer of insulated metal panels (IMPs), trim, and accessories. Founded in 1987 with manufacturing locations in Monticello and Covington, Georgia, PermaTherm serves the cold storage, commercial, industrial, data center, and food processing industries.

The acquisition of PermaTherm supports Carlisle's Vision 2030 strategy and its strategic pivot to a pure play building products company. The acquisition delivers access to solutions for the more than $2 billion North American IMP market and reinforces Carlisle's emphasis on synergistic M&A adjacent to its core building envelope businesses with products that deliver energy efficiency and labor savings.

Chris Koch, Chair, President, and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The PermaTherm acquisition leverages our proven M&A playbook and provides immediate entry into the growing North American insulated metal panel market while complementing our existing capabilities in polyiso insulation and architectural metal roof and wall materials. As part of our building envelope systems offering, insulated metal panels serve several of our growing end markets and represent a long-term growth opportunity as we work towards our Vision 2030 objectives."

The acquisition, which is subject to customary closing conditions, is expected to close in the fourth quarter of 2026.
