CBRE Recognized for “Best Use of Automation” by Realcomm for Third Consecutive Year

6/8/2018

LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 8, 2018-- CBRE has earned Realcomm’s Digie award for the Best Use of Automation in the Commercial Services category. This marks the third consecutive year that CBRE has been recognized with a Digie award by Realcomm, a worldwide research and event company focused on real estate technology.

“We design our tech solutions – including our Vantage suite of enablement technologies – to help deliver measurably superior outcomes for our clients,” said Chandra Dhandapani, Chief Digital and Technology Officer for CBRE. “This award reflects the rising level of sophistication and increasing pace of innovation occurring at all levels within CBRE.”

CBRE received other notable accolades from Realcomm at its 2018 conference. CBRE | ESI Founder Paul Oswald, who recently retired, was honored with a prestigious Realcomm Lifetime Achievement Award, recognizing a career of industry firsts and continuous advancement of tech solutions across client portfolios. CBRE was also named a finalist in the Best Use of Automation in Investment Management category.

Realcomm also recognized Don Goldstein, former CBRE Chief Information Officer, with a Lifetime Achievement Award.

Realcomm’s Digie awards recognize companies, real estate projects, technologies and people that go above and beyond to positively impact the real estate industry using technology, automation and innovation.

CBRE earned Realcomm’s Digie award in 2017 for its smart building solutions innovations and in 2016 for its CORE Asset Services operating platform, which allows property management professionals to assess and track key performance indicators and operational data to help clients make timely and strategic decisions.

CBRE's Vantage suite of enablement technologies provides automation, visualization, data analytics and other capabilities for our professionals and clients at various stages of the real estate lifecycle. More information is available at: www.cbre.com/vantage.
