More than 3,000 nominations were submitted for the 2022 Product Awards aimed at recognizing the growing impact of the CPO now and in the future, and the 20 most influential and innovative CPOs were honored for leading digital transformations across the globe. This year, Mr. Loewenthal is recognized alongside product leaders from Autodesk, Ford, Verizon, and others.

“The Global CPO 20 represents an impressive list of product leaders striving to push the limits of innovation in their respective industries,” said Loewenthal. “To be included among such remarkable peers is a testament to the innovation at ChargePoint that is enabling a new fueling network.”

Mr. Loewenthal has decades of experience in general management and product leadership, specializing in market-based business planning and cross-functional execution. At ChargePoint, he is responsible for EV charging solutions that work for most every charging environment, including retailers, employers, fleet operators, and homeowners. As a global product leader, he has deep experience in portfolio management and platform businesses including connected devices, hardware, software, and B2B2C. Mr. Loewenthal has held leadership roles at Plantronics, ReplayTV, Mitsubishi and several startups. Over the course of his career, he has helped launch products that have impacted the lives of millions. Mr. Loewenthal holds a B.S. from San Jose State University.

“As more and more companies are pushing to be product-led, CPOs are taking on more impactful roles. These executives are the navigators of the digital revolution, and the Global CPO 20 helps us recognize them,” said Products That Count CPO Renée Niemi.

About ChargePoint
