

ChargePoint Simplifies EV Charging for AAA Clubs and Service Providers

2025-01-30

CAMPBELL, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- ChargePoint (NYSE: CHPT), a leading provider of networked charging solutions for electric vehicles (EVs), today announced an agreement with AAA to become a preferred supplier, making ChargePoint chargers and services available to AAA clubs and their service providers at preferred pricing. Together, the companies aim to affordably expand the reach of EV charging infrastructure.

“ChargePoint is committed to supporting AAA members who are in need of EV charging for their business,” said David Vice,

Chief Revenue Officer at ChargePoint. “To support them, we now offer solutions AAA members can depend on for reliable EV charging at preferred pricing.”

The offers will be available to more than 12,000 service providers representing 27 AAA clubs across the US, and CAA clubs in Canada. These entities include towing service providers, automotive repair companies and similar small businesses with a need for EV charging. Offerings extend to support packages for existing ChargePoint charging stations owned by clubs and service providers. This arrangement will enable the continued growth of reliable, efficient, and affordable EV charging for AAA clubs and their affiliates.

“AAA’s first priority is serving our members,” said Bob Huffman, Director of Roadside Programs & Benefits for AAA. “By working with ChargePoint, we are able to provide resources and services to our clubs and service providers, so they are able to best assist our members when they need us most.”
