

SYNNEX Corporation Named North American Distribution Partner of the Year by Digi International

6/20/2019

GREENVILLE, S.C., June 20, 2019 /PRNewswire/ -- SYNNEX Corporation (NYSE: SNX), a leading business process services company, today announced that it has been named North American Distribution Partner of the Year by Digi International, a leading global provider of the Internet of Things (IoT) connectivity products and services. The award was presented during Digi International's Global IoT Conference held earlier this month and recognizes SYNNEX' Stellr™ business unit, which develops comprehensive solutions that address the convergence of cloud, mobility and IoT.

According to Rob Moyer, Senior Vice President, Cloud Services, Mobility, and IoT, SYNNEX Corporation, "Digi is a significant partner for us, and this award affirms our teams' joint commitment to driving growth around IoT products and services. Together, we can deploy simple, yet transformative solutions to help partners take advantage of the many opportunities within the IoT ecosystem."

In addition to helping drive Digi International's IT channel growth, SYNNEX is recognized for implementing competitive service offerings and aligning with strategic vertical markets and partner ecosystems.

"SYNNEX continues to operate ahead of the curve as a distributor of mobility and IoT products, helping partners capitalize on real-world opportunities they may not have known existed previously," said Richard Halliday, Vice President, Channel Sales and Alliances, Digi International. "We applaud them for their innovative approach and continued commitment to IoT success in the channel."
